Princeton Quintet Intrigues Nation-Wide TV Audience with Giant-Killing NIT Victories

A basketball team which began its demanding schedule hoping its coach would not experience his first losing season in eight years at Princeton this week won the National Invitation Tournament. It did so in such convincing fashion that three minutes before the championship game was over on Sunday, it had broken the contest wide open.

From opening day in late November until shortly before 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when the astonishing Tigers had finished stuffing favored Providence into the basket, they wrote a rags-to-riches story that will rank with the brightest chapters in the history of Princeton athletics. If it is eclipsed in the sense that exactly a decade ago, an Orange and Black quintet set national scoring records that still stand while battling its way to third place in the NCAA finals, that was achieved through the presence of Bill Bradley.

Bradley was All-Ivy, All-East and All-American—for three years. On the 1975 NIT champions, there is no All-American, no one rated good enough to be All-East and just one player who this year was named All-Ivy. Of the other ten, only one was accorded a place on the second All-Ivy team.

That, broadly, was how the other Ivy coaches who pick the all-league team, and the sportswriters and radio commentators who select All-East teams, tell about the ability of the personnel with which Pete Carril had to work. With what he had, he began by leaving the .500 mark light years behind as he directed the Tigers to an 18-8 (.692) record and a place among the first four teams chosen to play in the NIT.

He finished by sweeping four tournament games, literally demolishing Holy Cross, 84-67, and South Carolina, 86-67, before edging past the eventual third-place team, Oregon, 58-57, and then whipping Providence, 80-69. It was the first national post-season tournament ever won by an Ivy League college.

With the possible exception of Holy Cross, every one of the teams the Tigers conquered had considerably more raw talent, and in most cases, more depth. Height was in their favor, too: after 6-8 Lon

Springdale Golf Club's Denial of Membership To Trotman to Bring Charge of Discrimination

A complaint based on race and color discrimination will be filed against Springdale Golf Club next week by the state's Division of Civil Rights for Springdale's denial of membership to Marvin Trotman, black basketball coach at Princeton High.

The decision by the Princeton Joint Civil Rights Commission to proceed with filing a complaint was announced Tuesday at a press conference in the Commission's headquarters.

Preliminary investigation is still going on, said Michael Prime, chief of the Bureau of Education of the Civil Rights Division. The first step will be an attempt at conciliation with Springdale. If that fails, Mr. Prime said, there will be a public hearing. He estimated that it would be two years before the case is resolved.

Mr. Prime would not say what his case against Springdale will be. He said the law exempts private clubs, but he declined also to say why he thinks Springdale doesn't qualify as a private club.

The Rev. Blain C. Aldridge, 87 Robert Road, a member of Springdale and Mr. Trotman's sponsor, gave a detailed version of what had happened to the basketball coach's membership application. He charged that Springdale took "short-cuts" in processing the application.

As sponsor, Mr. Aldridge explained, he was required by Springdale's rules to find four seconders, which he did. All five members then wrote letters of recommendation, and Mr. Trotman filled out his application.

"According to the club's own rules," Mr. Aldridge continued, "the sponsor must see that the applicant meets with three or four members of the Board of Governors—but this step was omitted."

"Instead I got a telephone call informing me that 'membership is closed,' and 'we'll be in touch with you.' He declined to say who had called."

"They said they'd be in touch with me when membership re-opened but I didn't hear from them. In a couple of weeks I heard by the grapevine that the Board of Governors had met and rejected Marvin."

"I asked a friend on the Board and he said, 'You mean they haven't told you? He was rejected by a majority vote'. Three or four days later, I got a confirming letter. They had re-opened the membership, considered him, and turned him down."

Mr. Aldridge said he met with three of the Governors in a "very tense meeting. I got not one iota of information about why he had been turned down. I asked them to reconsider and they refused."

He then visited Sheldon Hackney, Princeton University Provost. "I was disappointed by his unresponsiveness," Mr. Aldridge reported. "He said a University person on the Board—it was James Litvak—had assured him no discrimination was involved."

In a statement this week, President William G. Bowen of the University said Provost Hackney had found no discrimination so far as Springdale's fulfillment of its commitment to the University is concerned. The University owns Springdale's land and the club provides special membership and playing privileges for University staff.

If a properly constituted body should find discrimination, President and promptly drew criticism.

From the Learning Community itself, the board named Ellwood Kauffman, a parent; Antonia Nielsen, faculty; Adrienne Lavine, student. The board had authorized PHS principal George Petrillo to appoint Bowen continued, such a finding might have implications for the future relations of the University and the Club.

"Mr. Trotman was not treated by Springdale in the usual way applicants are supposed to be treated," Mr. Aldridge stated.

Mr. Trotman's application was processed last May. In late January of this year, Mr. Aldridge resigned from Springdale in protest against the Trotman rejection.

Asked why he took so long, he said, "I was purposely slow. I didn't want to be impulsive. I thought there could be a chance for reconsideration. I wrote again in the fall. I hoped the University might play a role. I wondered whether I might be more effective to work for change inside the Club."

Mr. Trotman was reportedly denied membership because of allegedly unsportsmanlike conduct as coach in the PHS-Ewing basketball game two years ago. PHS' team was later barred from a post-season tournament on the basis of Mr. Trotman's actions at the Ewing game.

The Civil Rights Commission presented a letter from George T. Kotch, president of Board 193 of Mercer County Officers to PHS Principal George Petrillo declaring that Mr. Trotman conducted himself "in a gentlemanly fashion and was in complete control of his ball players" at the PHS-Hillsborough game on March 3 of this year.

Mr. Aldridge said he had heard that now might be a good time for Mr. Trotman to re-apply for admission to Springdale, but Mr. Trotman said he would not do so. "I have already applied," he said.

three from the high school staff and Mr. Petrillo named Richard Saldon as his representative; Marvin Trotman as the Guidance Department representative and physical education teacher Lawrence Ivan from the faculty at large.

When Winthrop Pike, board president, suggested that a board member be added to break any possible ties, board member Joan Doig demurred. A board member should be ex officio, she said, because it would put such a person in a difficult spot to be a tie-breaker.

Raymond Hunt, Middle School teacher asked whether appointing a committee with two clear-cut "sides" was deliberate, and Mr. Pike said it wasn't. Elizabeth Smith, defeated school board candidate and Learning Community parent, asked whether there was enough "academic" faculty representation and Superintendent Philip E. McPherson retorted, in reference to Mr. Ivan, that physical education was regarded as an academic subject.

"Mr. Ivan is in contact with every kid in the school, in his role as gym teacher," defended Mr. Petrillo. "Mr. Saldon is head of the department and most knowledgeable about the Learning Community and I chose Mr. Trotman because someone from Guidance was specified."

Cawley Will Run Again for Borough Mayor

Robert W. Cawley will run again for the job of mayor of Princeton Borough, he announced this week. It will be for a third term, but only a second four-year term. Mr. Cawley was elected mayor in 1969 for a two-year term and re-elected in 1971 for the four-year term now permitted.

A Republican, Mr. Cawley currently presides over an all-Democratic Borough Council. Two members—Robert Powell and Barbara Sigmund—whose terms expire this year haven't yet said whether they will run again and Republicans so far have no candidates for those two seats.

The Democrats haven't announced who will oppose Mr. Cawley in November. The filing deadline is April 24 for the June 3 primary. Asked whether Borough Republicans expected a stiff primary fight for the mayoralty nomination, Mr. Cawley grinned and said, "No."

Tigers Win NIT

Ramati and 6-7 Barnes Hauptfuhrer, the Tigers had no one whose size could be counted on to give them an edge in vital rebounding.

Yet when they made it to the finals by beating Oregon, they outshined the team that led the Pacific 8 in that department and had beaten UCLA because it did so. Said CBS commentator Sonny Hill, "Princeton makes up for its physical rebounding deficiencies by smartness and aggressiveness. It's usually where the ball is when the ball comes down."

Double D. To go with the smart, aggressive basketball they play, the Tigers match what the sportswriting fraternity calls "The Big D" (defense) with a second Big D—discipline. Time and again, they overcame lack of a high-scoring player on the team with ability to pare down the opposition's output—so consistently that when the season ended they were third nationally in defense for the second straight year.

Over the past five years, Carril-coached teams have allowed the other guys an average of just 64 points a game. In Jadwin Gym, early in January, they held to 49 points a Penn team that persistently went into three figures during the course of a season which saw it finish well up in the top 20 nationally.

Balancing their tight man-to-man style of defense (one so adept that it almost assumes the best attributes of a zone when the other team seeks to penetrate to the basket) is the discipline that frustrates run-and-shoot teams to the point where they often lose their cool in the final five minutes of a close contest.

Five times in Sunday's championship final, Providence broke out of its zone in a desperate effort to shatter the Tigers' game of keep-away. Each time, Princeton either drove in for a lay-up or drew a foul that helped put the game beyond reach.

At the Beginning. When practice started November 1, Carril had just three players who were capable of holding their own against most of the better personnel on teams scheduled to play Princeton. Among them, they had had less than three seasons of varsity basketball.

Junior Mickey Steorer was the only one of the trio who had started every game of his career, quarterbacking the team and just making in into double figures at 11.0. Armond Hill missed the final six games of his sophomore season when forced to withdraw for academic reasons, but returned to serve as co-captain with Steorer. His varsity average was 12.5.

Tabbed for a starting berth as a junior was Barnes Hauptfuhrer, who played in every game a year ago but not as starter during the last half of the season, when Joe Vavricka and John Berger began to work so well on the front line with Andy Rimol. Hauptfuhrer was also in frequent foul trouble as he learned Carril's brand of tight-guarding defense. By the time Sunday's NIT final at the Garden was played, he had learned it so well that in the highly-physical game with Providence, he drew his first and only foul around the 38-minute mark.

When the Tigers opened against Fordham in November, the fourth and fifth starters were Jim Flores, a senior who had returned after a year's absence devoted to furthering his scholastic status, and Mark Hartley, the pick of a sub-par (8-7) freshman team.

Lineup Shuffled. While Steorer, Hill and Hauptfuhrer were starting every one of the 30 games Princeton played this year, senior Tim van Blommestein advanced steadily in ability to the point where he displaced Hartley as a starter before the Ivy race began. "It used to be," said the forthright Carril, "that Timmy made enough mistakes so you couldn't be sure whether he was for us or against us." On the way to the NIT title, van Blommestein had honed his skills so finely that when the Tigers were knocking off South Carolina, Oregon and Providence, he contributed an invaluable 77 points while also playing superb defense.

If there has been accelerated development and poise on the part of every member of the squad, the progress recorded by gangling Ilan Ramati may just be the most unusual in the career of any sophomore every to play for Princeton. So inexperienced, so seemingly uncoordinated was he as late as mid-season that he often drew more personals (and very quickly) than he scored points while he was on the floor.

For Game Details of Princeton's Last Three NIT Games,
See Page 16B

Being the basketball coach that he is, however, Carril sensed that potential was there, and when Flores was lost for the season with a fractured jaw against Harvard in mid-February, Ramati had undergone sufficient trial by fire to withstand the best that a number of good big men could produce against him. His top effort in the NIT came against Oregon, where he produced close to 25 percent of the winning points in a low-scoring game (13 out of 58) and achieved a key block of a field goal attempt in the final minute that gave Princeton possession and helped prevent Oregon from scoring again.

Under Carril's guidance, players such as John Hummer, Geoff Petrie, Brian Taylor and Ted Manakas have gone on to professional careers, and others have earned their share of headlines while helping to maintain a high standard of winning basketball at Princeton. It is, however, difficult to think of any who was as completely transformed as Lon Ramati from the time he first took his uncertain steps in action in Jadwin Gym to his key contributions that same season to four straight victories and a national championship in Madison Square Garden.

Carril refuses any credit for Ramati's phenomenal progress. "After we lost Flores," he said, choosing his words colorfully, "Ramati just came out of the woodwork."

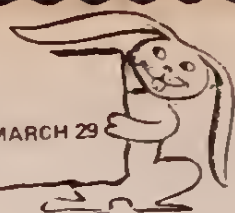

In the same vein, he insists he is no major part of the team's success. "Any jerk like me can tell them what to do," he remarked on one of the numerous TV interviews for which he was cornered Sunday. "They're the guys who have the smarts to go out and do it."

Just possibly the ultimate tribute to the achievements of the NIT champions—an assortment of undersized basketball players who once had hoped to win half their games this season—came from veteran CBS commentator Pat Summerall after they had run up a 42-24 margin over South Carolina in the first 20 minutes of play.

"It was," he said, "very possibly as fine a first half as I have ever seen a college basketball team play."

Zoning Board Rejects University Plans for Old Mershon House

The Borough Zoning Board last week unanimously rejected the application of Princeton University to convert historic Mershon house at 159 Nassau Street to professional office use. Essentially, the board ruled that the University has failed to show that the residence could not be devoted to a permitted use.

In a second application, that of Robert Poitras to convert the Princeton Recreation Bowling Lanes on Nassau Street to a restaurant on the second floor and a row of boutique shops on the first, the board postponed a decision until its April meeting.

The board said it wanted more information about the availability—or lack thereof—of off street parking spaces. The applicant is seeking a waiver of 34 spaces. Parking is the only zoning relief Mr. Poitras needs.

The University purchased the Mershon house for $125,000, shortly after it was offered for sale in March last year for $175,000. It was the only bidder. The house was the only property not owned by the university on that side of Nassau Street between Green Hall Annex on the corner of Washington Road and the old Nassau Street elementary school.

Grant Green, director of the university's real estate department, told the board that the home is too small (1,300 square feet) for classrooms, nor is it suitable for offices, labs or studios. "We couldn't find any direct university use," he said.

It was determined, he continued, that the most appropriate use would be professional offices. To convert the home to a mixed use—offices and an apartment—or to residential use, he added would mean adding fire escapes and tampering with the historical, architectural integrity of the building—"something we were not happy with nor was the Princeton Historical Society."

Midway in his testimony, board chairman Charles St. John warned Mr. Green: "You are trying to eliminate a dwelling home; I think you should be aware that it has always been the policy of this board to try to preserve dwelling units in the central portion of town."

Karl Light, a Princeton realtor, testified that because of the noise, traffic and fumes of Nassau Street, in his opinion, the home was not suitable for single family use. "This is not going to be a financial bonanza for the University nor anyone else," he added. "It is simply a holding action to maintain the building. Any approach to residential use would be 'economically untenable'."

Board member Michael

Rockland asked Mr. Light why, if Mrs. Mershon, who died in January last year, and others had lived in the house since the 1750s, "people can't live there any longer?"

"Because times have changed, Mr. Rockland," Mr. Light replied. A single family house in a central business district is an anachronism.

In the Public Interest, Mrs. Constance Greiff, vice-president of the Princeton Historical Society, commented from the audience that the Society supported the application. "The preservation of the building is in the public interest." She added that the Society was interested in the home, "...but was not prepared to make a six-figure offer for the property."

Leonard LaPlaca, owner of Nassau Interiors across the street from the Mershon house, told the board he felt that office use would complement his business more than a single or multiple family dwelling. "People in general," he added, "don't like to live on Nassau Street." Far from being quiet after business hours, he said that he had been told Nassau Street was often noisy up until midnight.

The Mershon home is located in an Educational One and Educational Two zone. Built in three sections, the oldest part predates the Revolutionary War. It is located on a 50 by 200 lot. The lot is assessed for $55,000, the house for $6800.

Attorney Thomas Jamison represented the University in its application.

NEW OFFICE BUILDING
Before Planners. Site plans for a one-story office building proposed for North Harrison Street will be reviewed when the Princeton Regional Planning Board meets next Tuesday at 8 in Borough Hall.

Also, the board is expected to recommend to Princeton's two governing bodies an amended version of the new site plan ordinance. Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week that enforcement of site plan stipulations is still a problem, but the Planning Board does not feel it can hold up its recommendation to wait for resolution of the difficulties. The Borough will probably introduce its ordinance in May, the mayor said.

MARD Associates, the firm of Arnold Hirsch and Robert Albahary, has plans for an office building of 3,249 square feet—159 by 57 feet—on Harrison Street across from the Cigo station. The site does not include property at the corner of Harrison and Valley which Dr. Hirsch owns. MARD will need a use variance for the project because it is in an R-6 residential zone in the Township.

Hopefully, neither crocuses nor people will run out of patience before Mother Nature runs out of rain. March has produced a good deal of late, and the forecast now says showers are a possibility both Thursday and Friday.

The mean temperature for the month finally ran high enough so that it is now just barely above normal. Wednesday was expected to be quite chilly, but by Easter Sunday, there may be a bit of balm and enough sun to please big people and small egg-hunters.

OPEN MEETINGS?
Sponsor to Speak, Borough and Township officials will be on hand to challenge the concept of open public meetings when Byron M. Baer, sponsor of an open meetings bill in the State Assembly, speaks next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Room 5, Woodrow Wilson School, on the University campus.

The meeting, sponsored by the Princeton Area League of Women Voters, is open to the public. Mr. Baer, Democratic Assemblyman from Bergeon County, is chief sponsor of State Assembly bill 1030, which requires that public bodies conduct all their meetings in public. Officials who oppose the bill believe it would complicate and delay the legislative process.

DINKY BEFORE "ICC"
In Two-Hour Testimony.
The importance of the dinky as a lifeline for Princeton was underscored again last Thursday in two hours of testimony in Trenton before the Interstate Commerce Commission. A dozen residents and officials from Princeton and West Windsor made the case, as they had in Washington last month before the U.S. Railway Association.

John McGoldrick, of Princeton, told the ICC that the U.S.R.A. has made an "illegal" interpretation of the U.S. Railway Act of 1973 and asked the ICC's Office of Public Counsel to bring court action. Making the proposed Conrail set-up solely for freight, he charged, ignores and is contrary to, the rest of the railway act.

Representing Princeton University, Leslie Vivian told the ICC that if the University is forced by the energy crisis to switch to coal as a fuel, it will need 14 carloads a week, delivered on the dinky's rails. He elaborated on the University's plans for the Forrester center and the need for transportation to that site.

John Barry questioned Penn Central's statements that freight is the only profit-making way to run a railroad. Who can absorb the cost of keeping the dinky running, he asked, pointing out that New Jersey is too strapped to afford its 30 percent share of the subsidy plan under which the Federal government pays 70 percent.

In two months, the ICC is due to make recommendations to Congress. Meanwhile, the "Save the Dinky" committee, headed by Barbara Sigmund and Edwin Hutter, plans to keep in touch with New Jersey's Senators and the area's Congressional representatives, and examine ways to re-inforce state backing through the Commissioner of Transportation.

MAN ASSAULTED, ROBBED
Following Dispute in Bar.
A 25-year old Princeton man was assaulted and robbed late Thursday night on the corner of Witherspoon and Leigh Avenue, not long after, police said, he had been involved in a dispute with four young men in a Township bar.

The victim was found around 11:30 by Douglass Griggs, 216 Witherspoon, who assisted in carrying him to nearby Princeton Medical Center. He was treated for head and mouth injuries, x-rayed and held overnight for observation.

After the attack, the victim's wallet containing $18 was taken. The incident is being investigated by Sgt. Michael Kopliner and Det. Frank Bocciafuso. Four young men were involved in the attack, police said.

DEPARTMENT STORE

25 WITHERSPOON STREET

March 26, 1955

It's New to Us

New Vehicle. A landau is, of course, a type of carriage, but do not be misled into believing that Landau's on Witherspoon is a new automobile agency. Landau's Department Store, 25 Witherspoon, is the successor to Wolman's, and Mr. Landau will open his door for business this Friday, March 18.

One of the store's biggest stocks in trade will be domestics: a rainbow of bath towels by Cannon, including those wonderful giant bath sheets that measure four by six feet, bed sheets in white or pastels, pillow cases, blankets, shower curtains, mattress covers, blanket covers — all the soft goods that every housewife relies on as she relies on bread and potatoes.

In this category, incidentally, we found some cheerful new summer bedspreads made of seersucker sprigged with rose or blue rosebuds and selling for $4.98. There are seersucker blanket covers, too, for $2.98 and more elegantly ruffled ones for $4.98.

Another section of Landau's is devoted to a large selection of underwear, hosiery and lingerie for men, women and children. For women there is Kayser, for men there is the B-V-D, and the variety in women's lingerie includes such fabrics as batiste, seersucker and rayon, shortie and regular gowns, tailored pajamas and all styles in rayon undergarments.

New lines will continue to come in, of course, because Mr. Landau plans to make his new store as complete as space will allow. On the cotton dress racks, for instance, there will be dresses at $2.98 and $3.98 in regular, half and extra sizes. His policy is one of complete guaranty of satisfaction with a refund if you wish.

AND NOW... We are pleased to announce the opening of

MAN CHARGED TWICE
With Trespassing. George McGowan, 28, of Kendall Park, was charged twice last week with trespassing on the Princeton University campus.
He was issued a complaint summons when proctors found him at 3:40 Thursday morning in Witherspoon Hall and another when he was found again at 11:44 Friday morning in Walker Hall. He faces two court hearings in April.

Found and Returned: Wallet with $273
Lloyd Wright, 25 Church Street, Kingston, is a lucky man. Saturday, he left his wallet containing $273 on a counter in Hinkson's, 82 Nassau Street.
It was first noticed by Lee Freda, an employee at Hinkson's who turned it over to his nephew, Mark, 18, a student at Rider College who works at Hinkson's on Saturdays. Mark and Richard Mangone, 14, an eighth-grader at St. Paul's School, who also works at Hinkson's, looked for some identification and tried, without success, to get Mr. Wright's telephone number. "When we looked inside and saw how much money was in it, we decided to call the police," said Richard.
Ptl. William Fitch picked up the wallet and took it to police headquarters. The owner was notified and it was turned over to him.

Street, and Robert A. Bamberger's. They were O'Connor, 37 Ridgeview Circle, $20 and $15.
Jimmie Jones Jr., 161 Pinelli and released pending Packler Road, Lawrenceville, for further action by a juvenile hacking into a street.
STEERING LOCKS
Car Is Totaled. A Rocky Hill driver totalled his car Sunday when he told police his steering locked and he ran off the roadway and struck a service pole.
The driver, James D. Kochis, 22, 95 Princeton Avenue, was treated at Princeton Medical Center after he complained of back pains. The mishap took place shortly after 6 p.m. as Mr. Kochis was driving on Ewing Street near the intersection of Mt. Lucas Road.
TWO GIRLS CHARGED
With Shoplifting. Two 17-year old girls from Pennington have been charged by Township police with shoplifting last week in Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center.
They were apprehended by Ewing Township police for shoplifting in that community when a subsequent investigation revealed that they had merchandise valued at $78 in their possession which had allegedly been taken from

52 TAPES STOLEN
Loss is $350. Fifty-two eight-track stereo tapes valued at $350 were stolen last week from a car parked in the lot next to Jadwin Gym on the University Campus.
Cynthia Manning of Newton told police that her car had been locked but police report no signs of forced entry. She discovered the theft after returning from the NCAA wrestling matches inside the gym. Also taken, she said, was a green suitcase valued at $75 belonging to a friend.
Ms. Manning's stereo player under the car's dashboard was damaged, police said, but not removed.

Kenneth Seals of Trenton reported last week the theft of a $155 police monitor radio from his car parked in the University's Lot 16 off Faculty Road.

During the larceny, police said, a wire apparently short-circuited, causing several wires in the electrical system to burn, but they described the damage as slight. The car had been forced open.

Tires Slashed. DeWitt Boice, 90 Shady Brook Lane, told police that three tires on his small utility truck had been cut with a knife between 7 and 7:15 Friday night while it was parked in his drive.
He placed the damage at $150. Ptl. Jerry Offredo investigated.

BOOKCASE IS BURNED
In Von Neumann Dr. Fire. A bookcase and a cot were burned Monday afternoon in a fire confined to a second-floor study at 173 Von Neumann Drive.

The occupant, W.C. Powell, told firemen that he had thrown a match in a plastic wastebasket and then left his study to read in an adjoining bedroom. Apparently the match had failed to extinguish—when Mr. Powell returned to the study he said that flames were shooting as high as the ceiling. He called the police.

Three pieces of apparatus and 10 volunteer firemen responded to the 2:56 call. There were no injuries.

Bedroom Fire. A second fire in the Township last week occurred Thursday evening when a general alarm was sounded at 8:21 for a fire in the home of Robert Nelson, 147 Birch Avenue.

Police report the blaze was confined to a bed in a front bedroom. Damage was slight. It appears as if the fire originated in an electrical outlet next to the bed, police said.

The fire was reported by a neighbor, Warren Hoff, 25 Race Street.

THREE ARE FINED
For Careless Driving. Three Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Philip Carchman in Borough traffic court for careless driving.

Ronald I. Strickler, Mill Road, Plainsboro, was fined $40 and had his motorcycle license revoked for 30 days. Arnold Frederick, Cold Soil Road, Lawrenceville, and Peter Bernard, 59 Westcott Road, paid $25 and $20 respectively.

Felice D. Gordon, 48 Woods Way, was fined $20 and James J. Lennon, 151 Longview

Drive, $15, for speeding. Red light violations cost Edward H. Lechner, 15 Madison

Little Effect in Princeton Is Anticipated From Court Ruling on Zoning Ordinance

The exclusionary zoning decision by the New Jersey Supreme Court this week isn't expected to have much effect on Princeton, in the opinion of Planning Board chairman Hans K. Sander.

The court ruled that towns may not zone out low and middle income families by requiring large lot sizes, excluding apartment buildings and so on. It also said that New Jersey communities must adopt land-use laws that allow for a wide choice in housing, and must consider the housing needs of the region, as well as their own.

Mr. Sander pointed to the 550 housing units stipulated in the Township's 1968 Master Plan, as amended in 1971 and 1972, and to low and middle-income housing now under construction for Princeton Community Village.

"There is ample demonstration for the courts that the topic has been debated favorably in Princeton," he said. "Also, our effort was bipartisan, and involved the whole community."

Mr. Sander said he was referring to conferences with various community groups two and three years ago when the "village" housing concept was in process.

The decision announced Monday involved Mount Laurel Township in Burlington County. Mount Laurel was ordered by the court to amend its zoning law to provide for low and middle-income housing. "Further judicial action" would be taken, warned the court, if such amendments weren't forthcoming in 90 days.

"The court's decision was no surprise to our Planning Board," he added, "and Princeton has agreed for seven years to the principle of a wide spectrum of housing. We can prove to the court a conscious decision to widen that spectrum."

NO ACTION YET...

On "Crosstown 62". The taxi service that would take the place of the old Crosstown 62 service for Princeton's elderly residents won't begin right away.

Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week that Borough Council is concerned about a requirement in the new ordinance that the chosen taxi firm have a minimum of four taxis and a radio-dispatch signal. Only one company, A-1 Able Taxi, owned by Borough police officer Victor Fassanella, meets those requirements, the mayor said.

"This gives us pause," he commented, "but we hope to have a solution by the time Council meets April 8."

ASK TIGHTER CONTROL

In Waste Disposal, Princeton's landfill on River Road should be upgraded and brought into compliance as soon as possible with the tighter controls now under study by the state, Princeton's two Environmental Commissions said this week.

In a letter to the director of the Bureau of Solid Waste Management of the Department of Environmental Protection, the two Commissions, acting jointly, urge adoption of the proposed revisions. They also urge the DEP to enforce the new rules "vigorously" after they have been approved.

Township Committee should instruct its representative on the Sewer Operating Committee to make sure the Princeton dump conforms to the new rules as long as the dump is in use, the Commissions ask. The landfill is currently being operated with only temporary permission from the DEP. The two Environmental Commissions are concerned about the quality of ground water if solid waste dumps are not maintained according to strict standards.

DINNER MEETING SET

By Regional Council. The Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council Inc. (M-S-M) has announced that a preview and discussion of an illustrated report on the future of the M-S-M region in central New Jersey will be held at an invitation dinner at the Lawrenceville School next Wednesday.

Invitations have been sent out by Edward J. Bloustein, President of Rutgers University; William G. Bowen, President of Princeton University; Bruce McClellan, Headmaster of the Lawrenceville School; Richard G. Macgill of Princeton, Chairman of the New Jersey National Bank, and Mary G. Roebing, Chairman of the National State Bank; together with the Directors of M-S-M.

"The purpose of the illustrated report and the dinner is to begin the mobilization of institutional, citizen, and government support for the best possible development we can achieve for the central New Jersey region bordered generally by New Brunswick, Somerville, and Trenton," said Henry S. Patterson of Princeton, M-S-M President.

Sponsors of the dinner meeting include Edward O. Cole of E. R. Squibb and Sons, Inc.; John Hoff III, First National Bank of Princeton; and Charles Barnwell Straut, Princeton Bank and Trust Company.

Founded in 1968, as a non-profit organization, M-S-M has made a number of finding and policy studies including its pioneering research report, "Housing and the Quality of our Environment," published in 1970. At present, M-S-M is completing an "impact planning study" of growth and development in the M-S-M region, funded in part by a grant from the State of New Jersey.

GIRL'S BEST FRIEND: Diamonds, including the intriguing jewelry displayed here, will be offered as prizes to those attending the Heart Fund Gala at the Greenacres Country Club on April 5. The jewelry was donated by Hamilton Jewelers of Trenton. Proceeds will support the Heartmobile intensive care unit.

THE BEAT GOES ON
For Heart Fund Gala. The invitational dinner dance, commonly known as the Heart Fund Gala, will be held April 5 at Lawrenceville's Greenacres Country Club, according to Mrs. Susan Ultan, chairman of the Women's Guild of the Mercer County Chapter of the American Heart Association. The proceeds will be invested in the continuing operation of the Heartmobile, an intensive care unit ambulance, designed to provide emergency treatment for those sustaining heart attacks.

The Gala begins with cocktails at 7 and a fashion show of selected pieces from Hamilton Jewelers of Trenton. A full-course dinner and dance will follow with music by Charles Naylor and his orchestra and the Princeton Tiger Lilies.

Other highlights include a drawing of $5 chances for an assortment of prizes, featuring the jewelry from Hamilton, porcelains, courtesy of Edward Marshall Boehm Inc. of Trenton, and a silent auction of antique silver candle holders. Reservations can be obtained by calling Mrs. Ultan at 896-1790.

EXTRA MEETING....

For Township Committee. Never enough hours on Monday nights for Township Committee, so the governing body has scheduled a third meeting for March. It will be next Monday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall. This doesn't cancel out the first Monday-in-April meeting which is still on the calendar for Monday, April 7.

On March 31, Committee will hold public hearing on the newest service agreements with the Stony Brook Sewerage Authority. This is the one that allows Hopewell Borough to bow out.

The $330,000 ordinance for developing the north side of Community Park (Phase 1) will also be introduced. The Township has been assured of $162,300 from the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, dispensed through the state. Of the remaining amount, the Township will pay two-thirds and the Borough one-third, under the usual rateables formula.

Because Borough and Township still must line up details, the public hearing on senior-citizen transportation will be postponed from April 7 until a later date, and Committee will announce this postponement on Monday.

Public hearing will be held on the Snowden Lane sidewalk assessments, and Committee will place in the record the Princeton Regional Board of Education's appeal to the state of Borough-Township decision on the school budget.

THEFT REPORT

Enlarger, Ring Stolen. A photo enlarger and Peruvian gold ring were among items listed as stolen last week by police.

The enlarger and lens, valued between $350 and $400, were taken from the University's visual arts department located in the basement of the 185 Nassau Street building. There was no forced entry, police said.

The 18K, $325 ring was shoplifted Saturday from Morigi Jewelry Store, 199 Nassau Street. According to police, two couples walked in the store and one of them took the ring. They arrived and left by cab. Det. Ronald Holliday is continuing the investigation.

A stereo receiver worth $150 and a car-length brown leather coat ($175) were stolen Friday from an unlocked student's room in Henry Hall on the university campus.

Three wallets were stolen Saturday from lockers at the Princeton YMCA. Two were taken around 3 in the afternoon, one containing $48 the

In each instance, police said, the owner had locked his locker but had left the key behind on a bench while showering.

Battery Stolen. That favorite area for battery thieves--behind the eating clubs on Prospect--was visited again Saturday. A student told police the battery was removed from his car while it was parked behind Quadrangle Club.

In the Township last week, a fire extinguisher was stolen from the parking area under the Dean Mathey Court Apartments on Lake Lane. It was valued at $50 to $75 according to superintendent John Shell, who reported the theft.

LECTURE SERIES SET

On Use and Care of Horses. For the third consecutive year, the Princeton Riding Center has gathered a group of experts to help the growing number of hunting and showing enthusiasts, pony clubbers and pleasure riders in the area acquire more horse sense.

BROBDINGNAGIAN. CRUSTACEAN:

Mario Pirone of Reilley's Meat and Fish Market, 22 Witherspoon Street, holds 21-pound Canadian lobster that was sold Thursday from the Reilley lobster tank. Because of its size, the purchaser paid a special rate of $67. Store owners Dominick and John Zullo estimate the lobster is between 30 and 35 years old and that his one claw alone weighed five to six pounds. "It looks like Muhammad Ali's right hand," quipped John. Won't it be tough? "Not necessarily," said Dominick. "It depends on how it is cooked." cost is $5 per lecture and $20 for the series, reservations can be made by calling 466-1383.

Next Wednesday, Michael Plum, a veteran of four Equestrian Olympic teams, will talk on successful combined training, and a movie of the "Ledyard Farm Event" in Wenham, Mass., will be shown. April 9 will bring George Morris, leading American coach, former U.S.E.T. member and winning competitor, who will talk on schooling show hunters and give a demonstration ride.

Dr. Elinor Jenny, a staff member at the New Bolton Center of the University of Pennsylvania, is scheduled for April 16. Her presentation will cover conformation, describing which horses remain functional, which do not, and why, and pointing out good and bad conformation in individual horses. April 23rd is reserved for Stephen Huber and two of his assistants from the Garden State Horseshoers Association, who will take up the basics of hoof care.

On April 30 Charles Kaufman of Kaufman and Sons, a saddlery and riding goods establishment in New York, will discuss saddle styles and uses, the quality of saddles from different countries, used vs. new saddles, and leather grades and quality of metal goods.

BIRTHS LISTED

ROADWAY OPPOSED

By Canal Coalition. In a letter to the Department of Environmental Protection, released this week, the Delaware and Raritan Canal Coalition expressed strong opposition to the New Jersey Department of Transportation's proposed alignment for Route 18 in New Brunswick.

The Coalition demanded that Commissioner David J. Bardin use his authority to prevent encroachment on federally protected historic sites in the path of the proposed route. Preferable alignments that would not pave over 6000 feet of the historic canal, would not impair access to the Metlar House and Ivy Hall, and would not cut through the Rutgers campus are available, according to the Coalition's letter.

THE FAMILY IS TOPIC Of Sociology Panel. The Sociology Department at Princeton University will hold its final "Conversations" evening devoted to "The Future of the Family: Prospects and Choices" this Tuesday at 7:30 in the Woodrow Wilson School Auditorium.

The participants, Professors Suzanne Keller, Marion J. Levy, Jr., Norman Ryder and Charles Westoff, will discuss demographic, attitudinal, and value changes in the structure and function of the family.

Professor Keller teaches departmental courses on the family and on the future, and is a recognized national authority in these areas. Professor Levy is widely known for his research on Chinese and Japanese social structure and on the modernization process.

PURSE SNATCHED

In YMCA Parking Lot. An elderly Princeton resident had her purse snatched last Wednesday evening in the YMCA parking lot. She was not injured.

Police said that the suspect, described as 5-8, wearing a blue jacket and white trousers, then ran off toward John Street. Three patrol cars responded and police searched the immediate area.

The purse was later found on Leigh Avenue with a bank book inside but minus the $2 it had originally contained.

After hearing all the talk about tie-breaking, Dr. McPherson exclaimed, "You think that just by hearing these names, you've heard a three-three adversary position!" After the board unanimously voted to name one of its members (Hannah Fox) as non-voting chairman of the committee, Dr. McPherson announced he wanted the record to show the committee is "not a useful committee" and therefore an improper place for a board member to be.

Underlying the discussion were past accusations that Mr. Petrillo and the Guidance Department have not supported the Learning Community. But a student in the audience denied this, and said Mr. Saldon had given students a strong salespitch for the Learning Community in a recent school-wide meeting.

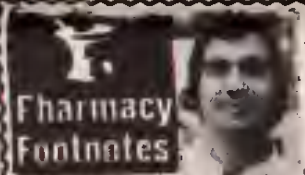

On the other hand, Mrs. Nancy Lichtenstein, a parent, retorted that a Guidance Department staff member refused to accept her daughter's choice of Learning Community courses.

The board postponed until next month action on the 16 administrators recommended to various school posts by Dr. McPherson. Among them is the recommendation of Wesley Johnson as Middle School principal.

For the board, Dietrich Meyerhofer read a lengthy statement of reasons why the board hasn't yet acted on staff appointments. He laid heaviest emphasis on the budget defeat and the board's decision to appeal the budget slice ordered by Borough and Township governments.

These reductions, the statement said, "are so severe as to be judged educationally unsound by the board." Dr. McPherson will report on ways to cut, and how staff will be affected. Only four teachers will have to be dismissed when April decisions are made, the statement said.

Why do people tend to overeat as they grow older? Usually, from habit. Eating is the first habit we form in life. Hunger is our first drive, its satisfaction is our earliest pleasure. As people grow older, their interest in eating is renewed. It all seems harmless, and it is something to do when you are bored. It gives you a lift when you are unhappy, especially if you eat sugars and starches, which are a mild stimulant. Food gives us something to talk about, think about, look forward to. If only we could look upon our diets without the habits of years of thoughts—it would be easier to change them!

Where's the Light?

To the Editor of Town Topics:
It was announced in Town Topics about a year ago that by the summer of 1974 a set of traffic lights would be installed at the dangerous corner of Snowden Lane and Nassau Street. Those of us who use this intersection many times daily refer to it as Dead Man's Corner, and we have been looking forward to some relief.

It is reported that the borough and township authorities have done their job and at this moment all the tubing and wiring for the lights are ready on all four corners. But there are no lights. They are nearly a year overdue. One must wait for "action from Trenton."

Would it be possible for the editor of Town Topics to inform its readers of the name of the bureaucrat in Trenton responsible for this state of affairs. Some of us who witness near crashes and accidents at this corner would like to write recommendations for him, her, or them to be transferred to a position in a minor capacity in a molasses factory.

31 Dogwood Lane
Editor's Note: Aluminum is the villain in this case, Princeton Township officials report, and not necessarily P. Norman Deitch, Highway Engineer (Traffic), New Jersey State Department of Transportation, the official with whom the Township deals and who has not, so far, expressed the vocational malaise that might lead to his transfer to a molasses factory.

Bases, poles and arms for the lights are all made of aluminum, and it's in short supply. The Nassau-Snowden intersection is one of about 50 in the state that are still waiting for that green light, and the state won't say where the Township is on the waiting list. In case the writer of this letter has dark thoughts about the influence of Princeton University on the Department of Transportation, the new traffic lights at Prospect and Washington, and at Alexander and Faculty were not acquired through the state, but by the University through its own sources. They do, of course, have the necessary state approval.

Inflammatory Comments.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

One wishes that the unnamed "official," a member of the Princeton governing body who was quoted at length in Town Topics' story of March 20 about the school budget, had spoken for himself. While the judgments he airily ascribed to members of the two governing bodies in general certainly were shared by a number of them, the views were not unanimous.

His assertions were based upon one three-hour Saturday meeting held with the school board after our recommended reductions had been delivered to individual board members the afternoon before. Some members had had no opportunity even to study them beforehand, much less to discuss them together until they caucused midway through the meeting.

To claim that after one week's investigation we were better informed than were school board members after months, and for some even years, of grappling with complex school problems reflects less on the board than upon any "official" who would advance such a proposition.

Except under the unusual circumstances of the past few weeks, the governing bodies have no statutory or traditional responsibility in the area of schools. Such gratuitous public comment in a field hitherto off limits can serve only to inflame relations between the public, the Board of Education, the Administration and the governing bodies.

Firefighters Thanked.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
We would like to commend and thank the Princeton Township police and the Princeton Fire Department for responding so quickly to our call on March 20. The fire was next door to us on Birch and if they had not arrived so early it could have been a major disaster.

Thank you. Thank you.

School Board Commended.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The superintendent and administrators of the Princeton Regional Schools have underscored a central problem in public education: Where is the line of demarcation between policy-making, which is the Board's obligation, and administration of the schools, for which the superintendent is responsible? The superintendent sits with the Board both to learn and to instruct: to learn from it what the public wants of its educational system, and to instruct it in the proper appraisal and pursuit of those goals. The Board's policies inescapably reflect the superintendent's thought and planning.

But what happens when the Board loses confidence in its administrators? How can that confidence be restored? These are questions the administrators should be asking. They would help us out of our present impasse by seeking to define the meaning of educational policy as they see it rather than calling the Board to task for refusing to let its proper role be usurped by school officials, who, of course, would like to see Boards of Education abolished.

The ACLU has accurately called the public school system "a bureaucracy almost impossible to combat without enthusiastic legal help." I believe the Board has done the community a service by publicly calling in question a number of the superintendent's insistent recommendations. Instead of being obstructionist the administrators might try being analytical, for the sake of a proper balance between flights of administrative theory and the hard road of educational policy.

Direct Approach Preferred.

NOTICE

Letters to TOWN TOPICS' "Mailbox" should be typed, double-spaced, signed and received for publication no later than Monday. No letter will be printed without a valid signature and address. Letters longer than 500 words may be edited or omitted entirely, at the discretion of the editor. Letters on subjects not specifically related to the Princeton area may also be rejected.

I urge you to stop printing letters in your paper which use the above form. I, for one, am tired of reading warmed-over letters to the Editor which were originally addressed to someone else.

A person who has something to say to you and your readers should have the courtesy to compose a letter for them. The typical letter written to someone else and duplicated for publication in your Letters column contains much extraneous information relevant only to the original addressee. Furthermore, the letter should stand on its own merits and not drag someone else's name in for effect. If I were the original addressee of such a letter, I would be offended that a letter written to me was being publicized and that my name was being used as a propaganda device.

If people want to pass out handbills or send out bulk mailings, that is still their privilege. However, I think that your space is too valuable for regurgitated messages. Press Releases are one thing; a Letter to the Editor should be something else.

Better Auditorium Needed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
I have not been one that supported the large referendum. However, I attended a performance of "Kiss Me, Kate" at the High School and want to say that any school that can put on as finished a performance as that deserves a larger and better auditorium in which to work.

ROBERTA ECKELBERRY

How to Cope.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
I read with some interest the article concerning the deer population of Princeton and the problems they pose to local residents (Town Topics, March 20).

Up in Blairstown, where I now reside, there are many deer. Due to the rural nature of this part of Warren County, the deer have a great deal of freedom. As a result, we have two additional problems.

The first one is the likelihood that the deer would collide with an automobile. I know personally of two cases of deer-car collision. In one case, the car, a compact, was totally wrecked, and the other, a Lincoln Continental, suffered grill damage. Needless to say, both deer were killed.

The second problem is an unwritten law of the hunters of that area: Any large dog caught roaming will be shot. The argument is that a large dog can run a deer, particularly a fawn, down and kill it, thus causing the dog to turn wild. Needless to say, such killing of dogs results in great heartache to their owners.

One possible solution to these problems would be for Princeton, and other communities, to buy up tracts of land of about one or two square miles each for use as a deer park or even a deer farm. They must be controlled areas well provided with food and water, so the deer population can be increased to an adequate level. This proposal will result in the lessening of the problems coming from man's conflict with nature, and also will provide us with a new source of meat, either for local consumption or for export.

OBITUARIES

Asa S. Bushnell, 75, of 6 Mercer Street, died March 22 in the Princeton Medical Center. Former Commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference and an influential figure in amateur athletics, Mr. Bushnell died on the eve of his alma mater's first championship in the National Invitation Tournament, a basketball event he was instrumental in founding.

Born in Springfield, Ohio, he was a member of the Class of 1921 at Princeton University. He once remarked that his highest achievement in undergraduate athletics was becoming assistant manager of the rifle team.

After working five years at a bank in Springfield, Mr. Bushnell returned to Princeton, where he served as editor of the University's Alumni Weekly magazine (1926-34); former graduate manager of the Princeton Athletic Association (1942-44); and the originator and editor of the Princeton Athletic News, the football program, (1932-37).

In 1938, Mr. Bushnell was selected to establish the Central Office for Eastern Intercollegiate Athletics. He nurtured this group through its evolution into the Eastern College Athletic Conference (E.C.A.C.). Under his direction as Commissioner of the E.C.A.C., a post he held until his retirement in 1970, the organization acquired some 200 member colleges.

At the E.C.A.C., he is credited with formulating a revised college football code that was nationally adopted in 1945, and with developing in 1951 a program for safeguarding amateur standards.

Asa S. Bushnell

Olympic Official. While serving as secretary of the U.S. Olympic Committee (1945-65) and as its director for 5 years (1965-70), he edited five prized U.S. Olympic hooks, and later contributed sections on football to the Encyclopedia Britannica and Collier's Encyclopedia.

As graduate manager at Princeton, Mr. Bushnell originated the Princeton Invitation Track Meet, a mini-meet at which a number of world records were set during its seven-year span.

He was program director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's extensive television programming and a founder and past president of the Collegiate Commissioners Association.

In 1970 the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Football Officials inaugurated the Bushnell Cup, awarded annually to an Ivy League football player for his "sportsmanship, leadership, competitive spirit, contribution to the team, and accomplishments on the field." In sponsoring the Bushnell Cup the officials cited him for his "great contributions to the advancement of college athletics."

Many Honors. His many honors include honorary degrees from Syracuse University, St. John's University, and Hobart and William Smith Colleges.

He was the recipient of the Olympic Torch from the U.S. Olympic Committee in 1966. In 1967 he was named a member of the Madison Square Garden Hall of Fame. He was nominated to the Athletic Directors Hall of Fame in 1970.

Since 1972, he served as co-chairman of the Concerned Alumni of Princeton, an organization critical of some University policies.

Married to the former Thelma Clark, who died in 1972, Mr. Bushnell is survived by a son, Asa S. Bushnell, III, of Tucson, Ariz.; a daughter, Mrs. Barbara Leonard, of Phoenix, Ariz.; eight grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Suzanne Semour, of Vancouver, B.C.

A memorial service was held in the Princeton University Chapel. The University flag will be flown at half-mast until after the funeral, which will be Friday in Springfield. Contributions may be made to Princeton University for the Class of 1921.

Alfred C. Gay, 66, of 51 Adams Drive, died March 22 in the Princeton Medical Center. He was a retired Air Force colonel and an employee of RCA.

Born in Youngstown, Ohio, he was a Princeton resident since 1960. He retired in 1954 after 23 years service in the Air Force. A 1931 graduate of West Point, he was stationed in the Philippines and served in the Pacific theatre during World War II.

He worked at RCA's David Sarnoff Center.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ann G. Gay; two daughters, Mrs. Ann G. Sydnor of Cleveland, Tenn., and Mrs. Brenda Watt of East Windsor; two sisters, Mrs. Frances Moody of Warrenville, Ohio, and Miss Betty Gay of Warrenville; and six grandchildren.

A service was held at the Old Cadet Chapel in West Point, with burial in West Point Cemetery. Contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Mrs. Elizabeth G. Pittenger, 59, of Cubberly Road, West Windsor, died March 23 in Helene Fuld Medical Center.

Born in Brockton, Mass., she lived in the area for 37 years. She was a graduate of the Mercer Medical Center's School of Nursing and was a member of the alumni association.

She was active in Chapter 246 of the Order of the Western Star and served as matron for a year and as Worthy Grand Ruth of the state Grand Chapter. She was a member of the Bordentown Chapter of Deborah.

Surviving are her husband, Frank B. Pittenger; and two sisters, Miss Phyllis Gray of Jersey City and Mrs. Bernice Hanhisalo of Dover, N.H.

The funeral will be Friday at 10:30 a.m. in Saul Colonial Home, Hamilton Township, with burial in Greenwood Cemetery. Contributions may be made to Eyes for the Needy of Millburn or to Deborah Hospital.

Four-Man Architectural Firm Dissolves; Sander Named to Head New Organization

The firm of architects known as Walker, Sander, Ford and Kerr has been dissolved and Hans K. Sander, one of the principals, is now president of the firm of Hellmuth, Obata and Kassabaum in Princeton. He is also a principal of HOK in the firm's nationwide organization. Technically, it's a merger of W.S.F.&K. with the New York regional office of HOK. The firm's home office is in St. Louis.

Kerr firm. William Walker and James A. Kerr are in private practice at that address, and Jeremiah Ford has joined architect William Short to form Short and Ford. HOK is best-known here for the Squibb headquarters in Lawrence Township. "The new office will enhance HOK's service in this area," Mr. Sander believes. "For example, if a U.S. government project for New Jersey should arise, a firm isn't eligible unless it has a real New Jersey office—not simply desk-space extension of a commercial office. And New Jersey itself wants to give its jobs to New Jersey firms."

"It's a step combining the specialist experience of the nationally-oriented HOK group with a local office like ours, which is familiar with research institutions, corporations and educational entities in New Jersey," Mr. Sander says. "We also have in-depth understanding of local New Jersey codes and zoning laws, and community acceptance of environmental considerations." Mr. Sander has been chairman of the Princeton Regional Planning Board since its inception six years ago and before that, was chairman of the former Princeton Township Planning Board.

In Princeton's HOK office, Mr. Sander will be associated with Mark Berkowsky, who was with Walker, Sander, Ford and Kerr for six years. Mr. Sander's chief role will be in administration and the development of new business. There are 15 on the Princeton staff, and HOK itself has an overall staff capability of 350 in all the firm's locations. The firm of Walker, Sander, Ford and Kerr designed the Pickering Building on Chambers Street, the drive-in First National Bank building near Harrison Street, Princeton Savings and Loan's Nassau Street building and North and South Halls at Tenacre.

The new firm continues to maintain offices in the 18 Nassau Street location of the old Walker, Sander, Ford and Saturday and from 8 to midnight on Sunday. It was previously operated for many years by George W. Mulheron but was closed a few months ago when Mr. Mulheron failed to pay federal taxes.

Churches, Synagogues Planning Services To Mark Good Friday, Easter and Passover

Fourth Art People Party on Saturday, May 3,
Will Mark Start of Town's Bicentennial Year

WINDOW-SHOP ON NASSAU STREET: Of course, the street looks somewhat different today, but the windows are still there for browsers and on Art People Party Day, May 3, they'll be filled with lively displays of Princeton Past—circa 1775—Princeton Not-so Past—circa 1952—and the Princeton of today's Bicentennial celebrations.

This year's Art People Council President, wants Party will commemorate...? You guessed it. The opening of the Bicentennial year. "Nassau Street: A Living Museum" is the theme; Saturday, May 3 is the date. The Arts Council of Princeton is once again the sponsor; warm and sunshiny weather is the ultimatum to the weatherman.

It will be the fourth annual Art People Party, and if you weren't around for the other three, we'll tell you how it is: A warm Saturday in May when streets are closed off (some of them), artisans demonstrate their crafts, children fly balloons and work on lollipops, adults shed adulthood and smile like children, people square dance and folk dance and watch ballet and listen to folk singers.

From "Morven" down the street to the old Nassau Street School on Moore Street, Nassau will be the Thoroughfare of the Day. Windows in every store will tell a story of the town, commemorating everything from the first Pee-wee Hockey League to the Battle of Princeton.

Yes, it's "history" in a living and vital sense. What happened 15 years ago or 35 years ago is "history," too, and this won't be just a hoop-skirt party by any means. In fact, Anne Reeves, Arts

Hulit's will have high-button shoes and probably an old fire-engine, because the Hulit family has had a long and distinguished connection to Princeton's fire brigades.

Varsity Sport has acquired the original helmets of the first Pee-wee Hockey team, and talk about antiques! "Men" who played on that team are now a hoary 21 or 22 years of age, and when they begin to reminisce.....!

"The most incredible quilt you've ever seen!" is the way Mrs. Reeves characterizes a quilt now under construction in a class at the YWCA. In time, careful needlework it shows the first football game back in 1869; the old canal; New Jersey's state bird, the goldfinch; Nassau Hall, of course; Friends Meeting House; the dinky (with black lace for smoke), the Battle of Princeton.....It will be displayed in the window of the First National Bank.

Princeton Bank and Trust will have that portfolio of 15 commemorative prints done by Princeton graphic artists. Now, do you have an old bicycle or an old carriage? The window of the First National Bank of Princeton is particularly well-suited to a large display of this kind.

Where Were You in '58. The Cellar will fill its window with memories of champagne parties—dance programs, photographs of giddy parties of not so long ago. You may recognize yourself in one of the pictures, or maybe you'd like to contribute a picture. Remember that wonderful party in 1958.....

Nearby, in the window of the Christian Science Reading Room, will be a history of newspapers, assembled by the young students who publish "Helikon." (Look for the issue of Town Topics printed on colored paper.)

Sam McDowell, the suburban mouse who owns The Country Mouse, has promised his peanut-roasting machine, but Mrs. Reeves would love a hurdy-gurdy to go with it. Got one in your attic?

Roasted peanuts, yes. Fried chicken and spaghetti from the First Baptist Church, as always. Nobody will go hungry.

Just Food For Sale. Crafts will be made, but artisans won't be selling their wares. "This is a 'giving' day," is Mrs Reeves' way of saying it. The policy is a new one; Art People Parties in the past have always allowed vendors to vend--everything from

BROMBERG & MULDAUR
But Not Together. David Bromberg will bring band and friends to Alexander Hall for a concert at 8 on Saturday, April 5. The "friends" are whoever happens to be around Bromberg at the time. The band, Dixieland-tinged, consists of cornet, reeds, fiddle, bass, drums. Bromberg, product of blues, jazz, folk and even the classics, began to be heard from five years ago at the age of 24, when he was playing the "hasket houses" (clubs where they pass the hat) in the Village. He is now famous. Maria Muldaur will sing at

THE PEACOCK INN
20 Bayard Lane (Rt. 206) Princeton, N.J.

MORE FROM "THE PEACOCK TAPES"

Q. THE PEACOCK INN has been a small hotel since 1912. Tell me about the guest rooms.
A. There are 17 rooms, some with full bath, some with half bath (no tub or shower), some with no bath. These last share hall bathrooms.

Q. Are the room rates high?
A. No, not in comparison to others. Single occupancy rooms range from $12 - $18 nightly; double occupancy rooms from $16 - 20 nightly.

Q. Where do your guests come from?
A. Literally from all corners of the world; Moscow, New Guinea, India, Europe, New Zealand, usually because of the University. Others are business men visiting the many research facilities around Princeton; or parents, friends and relatives of local residents.

Q. Is it true that the Inn refuses unmarried couples?
A. Yes. The Inn also locks its doors at 12:30 a.m. (guests must be in by that hour) and generally encourages quiet halls and hushed voices.

Q. Does the Inn serve breakfast?
A. No, regrettably, but there are several breakfast places within 5 - 7 minutes walking distance.

Q. How's business?
A. Very good. Reservations are usually needed and deposits are generally required to hold a room.

Q. Would I like staying at the Peacock Inn?
A. It's a pleasant alternative to modern motels; financial considerations aside, it's a lot like spending a night in Grandmother's house.

TEEN DANCE....
In Spring Workshop. Spring enrollment is at hand for the second semester of the Teen Workshop in Modern Dance of the Dance Co-op. New registrants are invited to enroll now for the final seven-week session that starts Wednesday, April 2. The class will meet Monday and Wednesday afternoons from 5 p.m. to 6:30 in the church school hall of the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, Princeton.
Teens in the workshop learn techniques and body movements that liberate the body and involve the student in exploration and creation, according to Esther Seligmann, who conducts the workshop.

Young people learn about the dance as an art form through discussions about dance, music, theatre and the visual arts. They bring to the workshop various kinds of objects that interest them, and they use rhythm instruments, recordings of jazz, rock or the classics and even props as points of departure for talk and creativity.
Information about the Teen Workshop may be obtained from Mrs. Seligmann at 921-1780. Inquiries about other offerings of the Dance Co-op may be directed to Sandra Goettinger, River Road, Belle Mead, 201-359-6889.

'LITTLE ME' COMING
To Mercer County. "Little Me," the Broadway musical with an impressive list of authorship credits, will be the next dramatic presentation at Mercer County Community College.
Neil Simon, whose Broadway successes have become a yearly event in New York, has adapted the book from the best-selling parody-novel by Patrick Dennis, whose Broadway reputation was secured by "Mame." Composer Cy Coleman, who worked with Simon on another successful musical, "Sweet Charity," has collaborated with Carolyn Leigh, whose lyrics have graced shows such as "Peter Pan," "Wildcat," and "How Now, Dow Jones."
"Little Me" is a parody of a ghost-written autobiography by a glamorous movie star. Belle Poitrine is the heroine, and her exploits require the casting of two people to portray her life story. Rosemarie Cooper plays the youthful Belle, while Kelly Rodrigues portrays Belle in her mature, reminiscent years.
Versatile Jack D'Angelo portrays seven of the men in Belle's life, including a blue-blooded hero, a lecherous octogenarian, a Chevalier-like Amarcord. Federico Fellini's films have not always been the easiest to understand but he has never made a bad one. When one considers that Amarcord is probably his best and most accessible film of all, one has what the New York Film Critics Awards picked as the best film of all in 1974.

To Amarcord ("I Remember") Fellini reaches back into his fertile memories for an earthy, kaleidoscopic view of an Italian coastal town in the 1930s. It is an overall celebration of life. The town's collection of eccentric but simple, affable types are viewed more with mocking affection than a jaundiced eye. The film brims with earthy humor, compassion and a touch of poetry.

Though Amarcord records a complete year, there is no real narrative link to its multitude of well-played vignettes. The basic locus is one family whose adolescent son has grown up into such zesty, unfulfilled lust that he keeps the best part of his confessions from the priest. Papa is a construction foreman whose vile temper and socialist pranks occasionally get him in hot water with the pompous local Fascists while Mama confines hattles and threats of murder and suicide.

With these and countless other characters as his potty, Fellini has molded an array of wonderfully funny, steadfastly human situations—from outrageous school-room pranks to hilarious semi-seduction attempts.

Fellini's casting is inspired: there isn't a wrong face in his motley crowd. In the magic of his memory, he has captured every aspect of the human comedy. Amarcord is a consistent delight.

Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore. Add "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" to the growing list of credible, rounded and realistic portraits of contemporary women now filling the screens.

Martin Scorsese has directed a wry, exuberant and thoroughly liberating film, and Ellen Burstyn gives a standout performance as a woman suddenly confronted with independence but only half sure that she wants to be on her own. The realities of "Alice" cut close to the bone but the film is steadfastly human and almost continually exhilarating.

As a little girl, Alice swore that some day she would be a better singer than Alice Faye. Twenty-two years later, however, she finds herself married to a macho truck driver and weathering his coarseness by swapping sarcasms with her precocious 11-year old son. Suddenly, her husband is killed in a crash, and Alice, stunned to realize how dependent she really was on him, decides to pull up stakes and finally launch the singing career that her marriage nipped in the bud.

The rest of the film is peopled with an astounding range of characters that touch on Alice's life—all of them uniformly vital, high-spirited and creditable. Harvey Keitel is superb and jarringly intense as a cocky, cowboy ladykiller; Diane Ladd is a fool-mouthed but golden-hearted waitress and Kris Kristofferson, a divorced farmer who agrees to give her both a career and marriage. But the core of the film remains the unique relationship between Alice and her son, as each go through the difficult process of redefining themselves. Burstyn's tremendous warmth and range—she reportedly freely influenced the writing of "Alice"—turns the film into a joyous experience.

Earthquake. The systematic destruction of Los Angeles unveiled in "Earthquake" is a triumph of technical skill. Spectacular special effects overshadow Charlton Heston, Ava Gardner and a large cast of stock types that are caught in a cataclysmic array of physical terrors.

Foremost of the special effects is a new process called Sensurround which sends low frequency vibrations into the audience during the major tremors. This is disaster drama at its most entertaining.

The plot is a little hokey but it is brisk, creditable and manages to hold one's interest between quakes. The cast of

They say nice things about Lahiere's

Princeton, New Jersey

As LONG as most residents of Princeton can remember, Lahiere's has been at this spot, limned in lights like some old theatre marquee. By Princeton standards the three-story stucco'd building with brown shutters, the former Central Hotel, is not very old, maybe a little over a hundred years. Still the greatest jolt to the Princeton image in the past quarter-century was not when they put up the towering faculty apartments down by the lake or the Yamasaki "bike rack" (the Wood- row Wilson School of Public and International Affairs), but when they took down the old red toile cafe curtains at Lahiere's and replaced them with a bold new floral. Lahiere's has expanded, overflowing into the building next door so guests can wait in comfort in the new white Normandy cave. The original Central Hotel dining room is the one with the bar but there are other rooms, upstairs as well as down, all cozy-looking, looking like a nest of flowers and little shades.

The Inn Book, authored by Kathleen Neuer and published by Pyne Press, Princeton, says nice things about Lahiere's. V-E-R-Y nice things. And you, too, will say nice things once you've delighted in the fantastically French cuisine; once you've savored a mellow clear wine from Lahiere's renowned wine cellar; once you've tasted a dessert delicately prepared by Lahiere's expert chefs. Step into a world where your pleasure is the first consideration. Lahiere's is THE place for tasteful French dining... nearby in Princeton!

"Quartet in F Minor," Opus 95, and "Quartet No. 1 in D Minor," Opus 7 by Schoenberg.

This will mark the 20th appearance in Princeton of this quartet. In the quarter century since its founding, this ensemble has set a standard of excellence for an entire generation.

In addition to serving as Quartet-in-Residence of the Juilliard School of Music and of the Library of Congress in Washington, the Juilliard String Quartet has to date played more than 3,000 sold-out concerts, not only in all of the major cities of the United States and Canada, but throughout South and Central America, Europe, the Near East and the Antipodes.

In 1961 it was the first American string quartet to visit the Soviet Union, to which it returned for another tour in 1965. It has also participated in virtually every major music festival around the world. The "Chicago Sun-Times" wrote, "One of the great satisfactions of life today is listening to the Juilliard String Quartet. It is not merely that it's good. The Juilliard is so fine that it belongs in a class by itself."

Tickets are on sale at the McCarter Box Office. Student tickets at $2 may be purchased one hour before the performance, if available.

PRINCE

Funny Lady. A continuation of the story of Fanny Brice who we first met in Funny Girl, "Funny Lady" is that rarity—a sequel that is better than the original.

There are two reasons for its success: Barbra Streisand and James Caan. Streisand is a dominating, electrifying presence on the screen. There is little room for anyone else and as a result some of her leading men in the past have wilted in her presence. Not James Caan, who is just as dominating on the screen as Barbra and more than holds his own. It is his film just as much as it is Barbra's.

In "Funny Girl," Fannie is jilted by her gangster lover Nick Arnstein, again played in a brief appearance by Omar Sharif. The first part of Funny Lady is devoted to her meeting Billy Rose (Caan) the short, crude songwriter who hustles his way to fame and fortune as a big time producer. He marries Fannie who is now a Broadway star, polished and sophisticated. Rose is aggressive, egotistical and uncouth.

But for all his crassness, Rose wrote some lovely, memorable songs and Barbra sings many of them in lavish production numbers. She is a dynamite singer. For all its outstanding musical moments, "Funny Lady" succeeds more as comedy, however. When Streisand and Caan are alone there is magic on the screen. She has matured as an artist. There is more insight into the human condition and a degree of sensitivity in "Funny Lady" that one does not expect from a musical. Above all, there is the humor that is generated when two strong personalities clash.

Cases of Breaking and Entering Increase Sharply in Princeton—
Identification of Valuables Urged as Simple Form of Protection

Breaking and entering and thefts are increasing sharply not only in Princeton, as the figures released this year report emphatically, but everywhere. However, if you live in Princeton, there is something you can do to help protect your home and valuables.

Project Theft-Guard, organized in July, 1972, by the town's two police departments and sponsored by seven independent insurance agencies in Princeton, is available to you. It is a simple—and effective—process.

Police at either department will lend electric engravers free of charge to any Princeton resident. They can be used on metal, wood, plastic and other materials.

Use the engraver to record your driver's license number on all valuables kept in your home or office, such as radios, tape recorders, television sets, stereo components, cameras, jewelry and silverware. At the same time, list such articles on a property inventory sheet provided by the police. When the engraver is returned, you receive decals (illustrated above) to attach to the outer doors of your home.

Operation Theft-Guard obviously does not guarantee a home against burglars, but it does discourage theft for two reasons: (1) "fences" who buy and sell stolen good do not like to deal with merchandise that can readily be identified; and (2) thieves are not eager to be caught with property in their possession that can easily be proved to belong to someone else. In addition, stolen property that has been recovered can be immediately returned to the rightful owner.

Throughout the country wherever this program has been introduced, statistics reveal there was a drop in crime in the community. Both Chief Frederick Porter of the Township and Borough Chief Michael Carnevale are strong supporters of the program and urge residents to take advantage of it.

ANNIVERSARY: For 20 years Mr. and Mrs. David Landau have worked together and watched their family business grow. Now in celebration of this anniversary, they have opened a second store -- Landau, Too -- devoted exclusively to pre-teens and young juniors.

IT'S NEW

20TH YEAR MARKED
By Landau's. Twenty years ago this week, Landau's became part of the Princeton scene when David Landau, a Brooklyn retailer, took over Wolman's Department Store. Originally located at 25 Witherspoon Street, the nature of the store as well as the location has changed over the years.

At first Mr. Landau tried to pick up where Wolman's had left off. A major part of the business was in what commonly was called domestics (sheets, towels, blankets, shower curtains and so on), with men's, women's and children's clothing making up the remainder of the store. (See ad page 5)

However, as the demand for women's clothing increased, the other items were gradually phased out to gain space. By 1960, Landau's dealt almost totally in women's apparel and in 1962 the store moved to its present location on Nassau Street.

Fortunately some things never change, and one of these is Mr. Landau's view of retailing. Ten years ago he said, "The manufacturers' interest is in high volume and sales, but in Princeton people want quality and good workmanship. For the first time in my career, I can buy what I want."

The same could well be said today. He still believes in "solid goods, not fashion items." To demonstrate this Landau's will shortly have a display of its clothing in their windows sold 12 to 15 years ago and still being worn by Princeton customers today.

Fashion Lines Added. While the traditional is extremely important here, since 1971 when Robert Landau joined the business several more fashionable lines have been added. With a degree in commerce and a masters in marketing research, Mr. Landau says of his son, "there isn't anything he doesn't research first."

This is a family store, with a basic mama-papa concept. From the start Mrs. Landau has worked with her husband, and he gives her credit for much of their success. As two of their sons, Robert mentioned above and now Henry, have joined them, the family concept should continue.

Mr. Landau feels they owe Princeton a debt of gratitude for their growth, and they have tried to express this by becoming more involved in public affairs. For example, the store sponsored a picnic for the Commission on Aging, and last summer contributed one day's proceeds from their rummage sale to the Princeton Medical Center.

Landau, Too, Opens. Now, they are celebrating this 20th anniversary with an expansion. Landau, Too, located a few doors down Nassau Street at 126, opened earlier this month with a stock of clothing bound to delight teenagers.

Their mothers will like it too as it is no longer necessary to travel up to 50 miles to find a wide choice of pre-teen and young junior sizes. The Landaus often had mothers in their main store looking at clothing for a daughter, but inevitably the look proved to be too sophisticated and expensive for a 13-year old.

This store aims to fill the gap with classic clothing in a lower price category. In fact, several lines from the main store are here in smaller sizes -- such as Skyr all-cotton turtle-necks, Danskin body suits and Deans sweaters, all with smaller price tags for smaller sizes.

We also saw the teens' most popular items. There are bib-front jumpers in a dark denim or kakhi ($15), long overalls in denim or multi-colored triangular patches ($15), and Indian-type gauze shirts trimmed with fabric and embroidered ribbon ($9-$11).

Racks and Racks of Slacks. Many of the short skirts have a boy-cut (some by Wrangler) and they come in several seersuckers, white and of course denim, $8. Rack after rack of slacks are here, most of them in the favored natural fibers. We especially liked some heavy cotton ones in a bright yellow or green with an elastic back and front pockets, and some blue or natural ones with large pockets and buckles for a safari look, both by Ginger Tree $13 and $15 respectively.

To wear with the skirts or slacks, there are loads of t-shirts (some with matching shirts), halters, and blouses. Our favorite here was a white top-stitched denim shirt by Moody's Goose that has a back belt, lots of buckles and seven pockets, $18.

For dinner or school there are coordinates. Bobbie Brooks has a mint green group in a crushed cotton that includes slacks, shorts, a button-front skirt and a striped top or a solid ribbed one, $6 to $18.

There is a most appealing pussy cat print shirt in red, yellow, white and navy that can be teamed with a navy skirt and blazer, by Russ Girl $10 to $20. We also thought Ginger Tree's soft blue wrap skirt and blouse printed with a deeper blue leaf design was extremely handsome, $13 and $10.

For a dress you can choose a short natural-colored shirt-waist printed with clumps of gay balloons by Peggy Barker, a cotton t-shirt dress by Bobbie Brooks striped in four tones of green and lavender, or a long muslin one for graduation, $14 to about $24.

As with any new store, deliveries are slow so new lines such as The Red Eye and Strawberry Plant will be coming in on a regular basis. Both stores, 114 and 126 Nassau Street are open Monday through Friday from 9:30 to 5:30 and Saturdays from 9:30 to 5.

ART In Princeton

DIMENSIONS IN ART
Sculpture at Squibb. During the past decade, American sculpture kept pace with other art forms in the search for new methods of expression and new substances that could be used as vehicles of expression. Sculptors, like other artists of this period, have often employed novelty materials, including a range of life debris, then, when their aesthetic effect failed, there was shock and surprise to keep the observer from falling asleep.

Throughout this era, while the main stream was trying to distinguish itself through novelty, there were more serious sculptors who continued to develop their disciplines, perfect their use and range of materials and seek out more meaningful visual experiences. Sahl Swarz falls into this category. He has developed new forms, explored and extended his materials and produced a consistently harmonious and often exciting result.

This current display at the Squibb Galleries in Lawrence features work by Swarz in several media and combinations of materials. Notable for their scale as well as their spatial harmonies are large works in formica, fiberglass, and stainless steel. They are examinations of pure form and space, reduced to the strongest and simplest visual denominator. Large smooth planes interact with curved silhouettes. Dynamic movements are created by contrasts and harmonies of negative and positive form.

Larger sculpture is complemented by smaller, more intricate works. Complex structures are combined with reflecting materials for multi-dimensional effects. The works are set on revolving pedestals enabling forms to change in relation to their altering mirror images when they are rotated. The effect is dynamic, providing the sculpture with an additional dimension that transcends actual space.

Paintings at Squibb. Paintings by Edo Murtic are pleasing companions to the sculpture. Large, strongly colored abstractions are almost violent in their combinations of linear tension, color contrast and strongly accented simple forms.

The gallery space and the intrusion of the local landscape through the large glass expanse provide still another dimension. Unusual balances and pleasing harmonies are created by the interaction of the setting and the art.

Gallery of Fine Art. Four disparate cultures are featured at the Princeton Gallery of Fine Art. Early classical pieces, pre-Columbian statuary and pottery, Indian Miniatures and contemporary African wooden works in traditional styles, reflect cultural differences and a few similarities. The works on display can be remotely linked in that they are all figurative expressions of their respective societies.

The delicacy and intricate construction of the Indian painting must be seen against the primitive shapes and structures of the African pieces, the elegance of the Greek and Roman renderings and the simplicity of the pre-Columbian art.

There are further comparisons to be made between the two visually sophisticated cultures and the two that express themselves in simpler forms. This collection is a study of differences of attitude, available materials, perception and expression, as well as a pleasurable viewing experience.

The Artisan. Sara Eyestone continues to combine rich color and pretty floral patterns using batik and line. Intense color is created on fabric using classic batik techniques. The effects are heightened by line renderings of flower compositions.

 aspects of the many prints the collection is a display of technical virtuosity. The precise use of the etcher's tools, fine tonalities created by pattern density, crosshatch and subtle aquatint invite careful viewing. This formal and graceful collection provides a contrast to the high color, technical innovation and informal content of a series of multimedia prints by noted Spanish artist Joan Miro. Intaglio techniques and lithography are combined in an unusual and original fashion to express this artist's familiar symbols and random effects.

traditional and contemporary concepts of pictorial organization.

For the beginner, an all-media course will be given with Rex Goreleigh, director of the studio. Basic technique will be emphasized in drawing and color exploration and subject matter will include the figure. The class meets on Thursday evenings. Sketch sessions from the figure are held each Sunday morning for artists and students.

BOOK SALE SCHEDULED
By Bryn Mawr Club. The 44th annual Bryn Mawr Book Sale will begin Wednesday, April 23. Plans for the event were announced at a recent meeting of the Bryn Mawr Club by Mrs. James C. Crimmins, President, and Mrs. J. Thomas James and Mrs. Michael Graves, who are directing this year's sale. The gymnasium behind Borough Hall will be the scene of this benefit, which provides scholarship money for area girls attending Bryn Mawr College.

Featuring used books of all kinds, records, and prints donated by area residents, the sale is scheduled to begin at noon on April 23, to go on from 9 to 9 on April 24 and 25, and to close at noon on Saturday, April 26. The children's night will be held again this year before the sale actually starts, on Tuesday, April 22, from 6 to 8 p.m.

Donors who would still like to present books to the club for the 1975 sale may bring books to the warehouse at 44 Patton Avenue (end of the driveway between 42 and 48) Wednesdays from 10 a.m. until noon and Sundays from 2 to 4 through April 13. Every type of second-hand book is accepted and sold at the sale. This year's donations include rare books, fine bindings, out-of-print publications, and encyclopedias, as well as outgrown children's stories.

NOMINEES SOUGHT
For Red Cross. The Nominating Committee of the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross requests the names of candidates for the Board of Directors.

In accordance with the Chapter's by-laws, names of candidates may be submitted by any member of the Princeton Chapter. Individuals who have contributed one dollar or more, either directly or through the Princeton Area United Community Fund-Red Cross Campaign, are members of the Princeton Chapter.

Offices to be filled are one-year terms for Chairman, First, Second, and Third Vice Chairman, Secretary, Treasurer and Assistant Treasurer; four three-year terms for Board members to serve to June, 1978; one vacancy for a Board member to serve to June, 1977; and two youth Members-at-Large to serve one year.

Nominations may be submitted in writing to the Chairman of the Nominating Committee of the Princeton Chapter, American Red Cross, 182 North Harrison Street, Princeton, on or before April 5.

HYDRANT FLUSHING SET
Begins Monday. The Elizabethtown Water Company will start Monday flushing and checking the 9,500 fire hydrants for which it is responsible.

The spring check-up of the thousands of hydrants in the 44 communities served by Elizabethtown Water is to insure that the units are in good working order. Crews will flush the hydrants, check the drainage and valving systems and grease the parts.

The task will take about six weeks and will be done at night between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. Flushing is accomplished at these off hours to avoid creating traffic snarls and to eliminate the possibility of young children playing near the hydrants while testing is underway.

In some areas, there may be a bit of discolored water for a short time, but this should disappear within a few hours. The discoloration is caused by high pressure through the mains during the flushing operation.

TAX REFORM BACKED
By Common Cause. New Jersey Common Cause announced its full support for the adoption of a state-wide tax reform program in order to reduce the reliance on property taxes in the State of New Jersey.

New Jersey Common Cause support is based on a poll of the 13,500 members in New Jersey, who responded overwhelmingly in favor of tax reform which would include a state income tax.

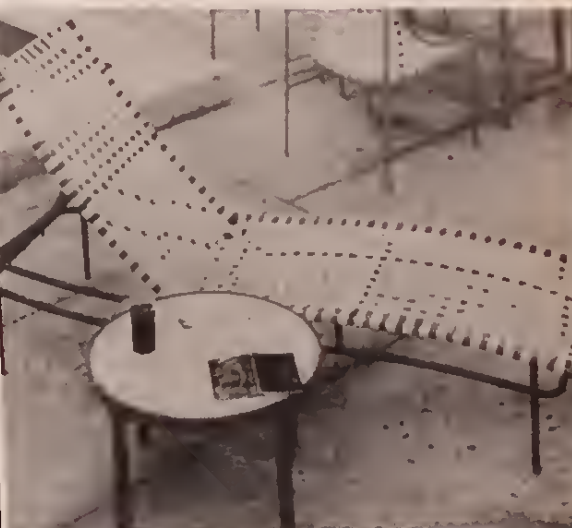

According to James S. Thornton of Princeton, speaking on behalf of New Jersey Common Cause, "The present methods of taxation in the State have placed an undue burden on certain segments of the population and have created serious financial disparities among municipalities throughout the State. Inadequate state aid has resulted in poor municipal services, inadequate support for local education needs, and an ever increasing property tax rate."

"State obligations such as transportation, higher education, health care and other services are not being provided at the level required by our citizens...Only through a new comprehensive tax program can we guarantee continuity of governmental services in those areas of public concern, and a fairer sharing of the tax burden by our citizens."

candles on up or down. But this time, no.

It may be one way of thanking Princeton merchants for all their cooperation. Nobody, according to Mrs. Reeves, has protested the Art People Party this year. Two years ago, the Party roused the wrath of a few Princeton merchants who claimed it brought an undesirable element into town and besides was bad for business. This year, they've been volunteering windows for display and working with what Mrs. Reeves calls "good old-fashioned good-will."

It goes back, probably, to the individual visits paid by Mrs. Reeves and her committee to every single business establishment in town, explaining the project and asking for suggestions and cooperation.

Paging Marion Updyke. Now, back to the party. Remember The Ball? A restaurant, where Hinkson's now is, it is remembered fondly for many things but chiefly for Marian Updyke, who squeezed oranges and won the hearts of thousands. Will Mrs. Updyke come forward? She would be queen of the Party, if Mrs. Reeves can track her down.

Entertainment...chamber music will be played in front of Maclean House, where the acoustics are said to be superb...folk dancing and square dancing will be for the watching and the dancing...the Witherspooners have promised to sing...the 260 voices in the vocal music department at Princeton High will be there in some way or other....

And there's a PHS student who plays ragtime like nobody ever played rag before. Banjo, tamboorine, harmonica—if you play any of these instruments, you're invited to the Party.

Kindergarteners?

It's registration time for all those who will be entering kindergarten next fall. Both Princeton and West Windsor-Plainsboro have sent out deadline schedules.

In Princeton, registration will be Tuesday, April 15 from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Forms are available at all elementary school offices. Children who will be five on or before November 30 are eligible. Parents must produce child's birth certificate and medical records, including proof of smallpox, D.P.T. and polio immunization.

West Windsor-Plainsboro's registration will be from Monday, April 7 through Wednesday, April 9. The Plainsboro registration will be Monday and Tuesday from 9 a.m. until noon, and 1-3 p.m. at the school. West Windsor residents should register at the Maurice Hawk School. Last names A-I on Monday, April 7; J-R on Tuesday, April 8; S-Z on Wednesday, April 9, all between 8:30 and 4.

The district has the same birth date and medical requirements as Princeton.

Richard Loutman, will sing early American songs; the Riverside School will once again present "Free To Be Me," under Marty Schneiderman's direction. Mrs. Reeves would love to find somebody willing to write a spoof of "Our Town," just for Princeton.

Musicians, artists and artisans and cooks must apply to the Art People Party at the 44 Nassau Street offices of the Princeton Chamber of Commerce, telephone 921-7176. To be admitted, any craft must, in Mrs. Reeves' words, "add to the day." She'd like to have cigar-makers, soap-makers, a furrier, somebody who could demonstrate the way lamp-lighters used to light lamps.

"The Party will, we hope, be a warm and easy way to learn a lot about history," Mrs. Reeves smiles, "and have a wonderful time, too."

FURNISHINGS SOUGHT

For Bicentennial House. Restoration of the Clarke house on the Princeton Battlefield is moving ahead with the recent acquisition of several furnishings, but more appointments are still needed in anticipation of Bicentennial celebrations.

Several pieces of appropriate Clarke family furniture that were recently found at Ringwood State Park are to be placed in the family homestead. Also, Mrs. Homer Thompson has contributed an iron fire back, dated 1629.

Since all the appointments must be dated no later than 1777, The Furnishings Committee faces a difficult task. It has, however, just found a Jersey chest and two eave beds that will fit against the walls of the low-ceilinged bedrooms.

The Committee is still seeking additional appointments for a parlor, a keeping room, three bedrooms, a sewing room, and a cellar.

Diorama Plaas. The Battlefield Preservation Society will, this week, review three proposals for a diorama of the Battle of Princeton. It is to be a major attraction at the Visitors' Center. Final drawings preliminary to contract bids for the restoration of the house and out buildings were scheduled for March 15.

Those wishing to contribute to or participate in this project should get in touch with the Furnishings Chairman, Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding, Jr., at 27 Rosedale Road, or with the Membership Chairman, William Starr, Box 1773, Princeton.

APPLICANTS SOUGHT

For Military Academies' Exam. Senator Clifford P. Case has announced plans to hold a Civil Service examination on Saturday, September 27, 1975 to assist him in selecting his nominees for the U.S. Air Force, Military, Naval, and Merchant Marine Academies, for the classes entering in the summer of 1976.

The examination is open to legal residents of New Jersey. New applicants who wish to take the test should write to Senator Case, Russell Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

All candidates should be at least 17 years old and must not have reached their 22nd birthday by July 1 of the year in which they will enter one of the academies.

CRAFT SHOW PLANNED

By Arts Council. The fourth annual Hobby and Craft Show sponsored by the Lawrence Arts Council will be held Saturday, April 5, from 10 to 5 in the Rider College student activities lounge.

More than 70 exhibitors are expected from the tri-state area. They will display and demonstrate such crafts and hobbies as quilting, rock and shell work, jewelry making, stained glass, weaving, models, pottery ceramics, macrame, and Russian egg decorating.

Council members will serve punch and cookies. Adult admission is 50 cents. Children are admitted free.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you

Here's the story of one of the most amazing performances in the history of sports...Did you know that one man once broke three different world track records all in one afternoon—and all within an hour-and-a-half! This was done by Jesse Owens at a track meet May 25, 1935, when he broke the world record for the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash and the broad jump in an hour and a half...And if that wasn't enough, he also tied the world record for the 220-yard low hurdles that same afternoon!

Here's an oddity about Detroit Tiger manager Ralph Houk...Houk played in the major leagues for 8 years, from 1947 through 1954, and never hit a home run!

Only two players in the history of the National Basketball Association have won the "Rookie of the Year" and the "Most Valuable Player" award in the same year...Can you name the two who have done it? They are Wilt Chamberlain who did it in 1960, and Wes Unseld in 1969.

Ability to Direct Tempo of Play Key Factor In Tiger Quintet's Four-Game Sweep at NIT

Defeating one of the top independent teams in the South, then a member of the Pacific 8 which had conquered UCLA, and finally an Eastern quintet which holds a 23-point victory over Syracuse, an NCAA semi-finalist, Princeton fascinated the basketball world last weekend as it won the National Invitation Tournament in New York.

Rated little better than an even choice in its first-round game against Holy Cross, the Orange and Black staged a massive upset over South Carolina (86-67), edged Oregon (58-57) and then defeated Providence (80-69), all in the space of 72 hours. Almost as fascinating as its ability to win the championship was the fact that three of its four victories over these highly-regarded opponents were achieved by margins ranging from 11 to 19 points.

The best measuring stick of a true champion is its ability to take charge of a game when the momentum has begun to turn against it. It was vital that the Tigers do so in each of their final three games, and they achieved it emphatically:

- In the first 90 seconds of the second half, South Carolina's surge accounted for eight unanswered points, an outburst so emphatic that it might well have cost Princeton victory over a team that had beaten it by 17 points earlier in the season. Instead, the Orange and Black called a time out and then coolly returned to its picturesque series of backdoor layups. Well before the midway mark in the final half, it had restored its 18-point advantage, and later had the astonished Gamecocks trailing by 25.

- After having led virtually every minute of the Oregon game Saturday, Princeton suddenly saw the West Coast quintet move out by four (54-50) with 7:04 to go. In the closing minutes, the Tigers outscored the losers, 8 to 3, the winning points coming on a

Tigers Now 13th
Victory over four strong teams in the National Invitation Tournament rocketed Princeton's basketball team to 13th place in the Associated Press rankings. Even after finishing their regular season with nine straight for an 18-8 mark, the Tigers were nowhere near the top 20.

Now wearing the NIT crown, 22-8 on the year and 13 in a row under its belt, the Orange and Black is 13th in the sportswriters' poll. Penn, which lost in the first round of NCAA play to Kansas State on its own court, dropped from 11th to 17th. Princeton is also ahead of such teams as Notre Dame, Drake, Centenary and Michigan, while Rutgers, occasionally in the top 20 during the season, finished as an also-ran.

pair of free throws by Armond Hill.

- Providence, too, threatened to take charge in the second half, at a time when Ramati was on the bench with four personals and there was a possibility that the rugged game with Oregon might begin to take its toll against the undermanned Princetonians. Once again, they began to direct the game's tempo, waiting for the disciplined shot after repeatedly killing the clock with a picturesque freeze. From a mere 54-51 lead, they moved steadily to 62-53 and then 73-59 before a couple of uncontested baskets narrowed the gap.

Friars Fold. In the final five minutes of the championship game, it was Providence for which the tense competition eventually proved too much. The Friars' desperate attempts to gain possession resulted in rugged contact, Steurer in particular taking repeated body blows as he brought the ball down court.

His foul shooting was highly accurate, however, and the six points he scored in the closing two minutes on a layup and four free throws were instrumental in breaking the game open. With nearly three minutes left, the Tigers led by 14, and the big Princeton delegation was in ecstasy.

Both Steurer and van Blommestein chose the NIT finals for the hottest kind of shooting performances. Each was 9 for 12, their fabulous 75 percent averages lifting the team's overall mark to a great 62 percent.

Steurer's greater number of foul chances (8 of 10) allowed him to pace the Princeton scoring with 26, but van Blommestein was close behind with 23. Barnes Hauptfuehrer and Lon Ramati made it the usual four in double figures with 10 apiece.

Tigers Lead in Free Throws. Princeton's edge over Oregon was achieved at the foul line, where the Tigers made 16 of 21 to a mere five out of ten for the losers. The latter had a 26-21 margin in field goals, but their guarding on defense drew far more foul calls than Princeton's.

Hauptfuehrer paced the Princeton offense with 15 points; Ramati had 13 on an assortment of hooks and follow ups, and van Blommestein was also in double figures with a dozen.

The Tigers very nearly ran into a peck of trouble with 17 seconds to go when Ramati was fouled and threw nothing more than an air ball on his first attempt. Oregon brought the ball down court, called time out with 12 seconds left but then used up ten of them without being able to get off a shot.

Hill knocked the ball out of bounds with two seconds left, but the Ducks didn't have a two-second play either. A sports axiom says that "When two teams are evenly matched, the team with the better defense is likely to win," and the Tigers made it stand up by a single point.

Hill's 18-point outburst in the first half was the principal factor that killed off South Carolina. He was also a standout on defense as the highly-regarded front line of the Gamecocks was held to 20 points below its average. While the Tigers were hitting on 52 percent of their shots, the losers were forcing many of theirs and finished at 39 percent.

Van Blommestein led the scoring with 24 points when Hill settled for four more in the final half after leg cramps forced him to the bench for part of the action. Steuwer added 14 and Mark Hartley 12.

TIGERS DROP OPENER

In 11 Innings to Rollins. A wild pitch with a man on third in the top of the 11th cost Princeton an opening loss in the Rollins Invitational Baseball Tournament Monday at Winter Park, Florida. But Coach Eddie Donovan had the satisfaction of taking Rollins into extra innings when his players had not practiced outdoors before going south, whereas the host team was seeing action in its 19th game this year. It was a 3-2 final.

Princeton outthit the victors, 11 to 8, but left numerous runners stranded and had the winning run thrown out at the plate in the last half of both the ninth and tenth innings. The Tigers drew the right to bat last in the game.

Donovan picked the right man as his designated hitter. Sophomore Bob Flaherty went 3 for 5 including a solo shot over the right field fence which opened the scoring in the fifth.

Runs in the sixth and eighth then put Rollins ahead, but consecutive singles by Kevin Plunkett, Flaherty and Glenn Christy brought the Tigers even. When shortstop Dennis Spates followed with a single, Flaherty was thrown out at the plate.

The winning run was charged to relief pitcher Mike French, who gave up a triple that was converted into a run on his wild pitch. Captain Scott McHenry worked seven and two-thirds innings in his first appearance.

Princeton was scheduled to play Tennessee, victor over Ohio State Monday, in its second game of the tournament. The Tigers will meet each of the other three teams twice before returning home Sunday. Their season at Clarke Field will open next Wednesday, April 2, against Lafayette.

LACROSSE TEAM WINS

And Then Heads South. A spring romp over Fairleigh-Dickinson University marked the opening of Princeton's lacrosse season before the Tigers left for Virginia to play Washington & Lee Tuesday.

'75 OUTLOOK IS GOOD

For PHS Tennis Team. Although he is rarely in the spotlight, Bill Humes is the dean and the winningest of all Princeton High School coaches.

As he starts his 15th season next week as head tennis coach, the outlook for PHS is the same as it has been in the previous 14—good. This year's, in fact, appears to be better than good.

From a team that won 15 and lost 3 last spring—and which captured the Mercer County and Central Jersey titles for the umpteenth time—Humes loses only two, Phil Ebersole and Kevin Little. Humes benefits from the Niagara of fresh young talent that the Princeton Community Tennis Program produces, and this year the Little Tigers are knee-deep in veterans.

"We have 10 to 15 fairly nice players right now that could play varsity at any other school," Humes commented, "but because of the caliber of the players we have here, they have to take second place."

Heading a list of returning veterans are a pair of juniors, Dan Aronovic and Dan Schulman, and sophomore Andre Eichenberger. The latter was the top singles player last year for the Blue and White. The three will probably battle it out for the three single starting assignments.

Others returning with playing experience are juniors Steve Ebersole, Malcolm Benjamin, Dan Amarel, David Bowen ('76 is obviously going to be a banner year for PHS, too), seniors Jeff Stenberg, Wayne Arden and Hugo Walter—the latter a sophomore.

Two Promising Freshmen. Humes identified "two promising freshmen on the team" as Allen Aronovic, Dan's younger brother, and Fain Hackney. Two sophomores identified in the same manner are Louis Snijders, a transfer student from South Africa, and Michael Lowe, who lived in London with his parents last year. Two juniors on the team are Peter Kahn and Andy Besser, and, said Humes, "a host of other classmen." He said that the squad numbers about 30.

Asked about prospects for the coming season, Humes not surprisingly said that he was optimistic. "I'm looking forward to another good season," he said.

A 15-match season starts next Friday, April 4, against Trenton. The Little Tigers' first home game will be April 14 opposite Christian Brothers, one of three to defeat them last year.

A "DAN" DY PAIR: Two returning starting singles players from last year's PHS tennis team, who seem certain to repeat those roles, are Dan Schulman (left) and Dan Aronovic. Both are juniors.

Madison, 22 to 3, on Finney Field Saturday. The Tigers beat the losing goalie ten times in the first period before FDU scored.

Junior attackman Rich Thomas led Princeton with five goals and an assist. Senior midfielder Bill Brusilow followed with four goals, while a sophomore attackman, Dave Tickner, contributed three goals and two assists. Bill and Greg Chaires kept peace in the family when each of the brothers was credited with two goals and an assist. Bill is a two-time All-American.

The Orange and Black was scheduled to play North Carolina at Chapel Hill Saturday. It will be on the road next week against Hofstra and Johns Hopkins before playing at home again against Navy on April 12.

JOINT EFFORT PERFECT

In Adult League, Bob Slaughter led all scorers with 25 points and John Bailey added 18 to pace Joint Effort to a 84-75 defeat of Lyons Seafood in the finale of the Princeton Recreation Department Adult Basketball League.

Effort, which had eased past

All-Star Game Monday

A team comprised of All-Stars from the PRD Adult Basketball League will play Joint Effort at Princeton High School gym Monday at 8. Joint Effort, which won both the League title and the playoff championship, did not lose a game this season.

The League All-Stars represent six teams in the League and were chosen by the players. Admission to the game is free.

Lyons, 94-63, just a week before, had more difficulty this time. After building a seven-point lead in the first half, and then extending it to 14 in the third quarter, Effort held off a charge by Lyons that whittled the margin to eight. Lyons received a balanced effort from Ed McEwen, and Milton Gaylord, 17 points apiece; Ron McEwen, 15; Ken Lyons, 12; and Peter Smagorinsky, 10. Joint Effort concluded its season without a loss.

FINALS WON

In Platform, Tennis, Connie Fleming teamed with Sue McCabe to defeat Marcia Bowen and Marge Smith in the finals of the women's platform tennis championships, 6-3, 6-3. Fleming and McCabe earned the right to play in the finals by defeating Jacques Ockerlander and Olga Seiler in the semi-finals, while Bowen and Smith defeated Miles Dumont and Marge Claghorn.

In the men's competition, Don Reed and Gerry Mould defeated the defending champions, George Ferguson and Frank McDougald, 8-6, 2-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3. Reed and Mould faced Ferguson and McDougald in the previous two championship matches, but this was the first year that they won.

Ferguson and McDougald made it to the finals by defeating Nick Bayard and Bob Thomas, 12-10, 6-2, while Mould and Reed defeated Tony Ross and John Dumont, 7-5, 6-2.

OPENER TUESDAY

For PHS Baseball Team. The Princeton High School baseball team and its new coach, Jim O'Neill, will open a 21-game schedule Tuesday afternoon when they travel to East Brunswick for a 3:45 contest.

O'Neill is pretty well set with a starting lineup that has Don Seitz in left field, Paul Soderman in center and Bobby McHugh in right. Eric Jahn will open at first base, Larry Howell at short, Pete Watson at third—when he isn't pitching—and Mike Boccanfuso and Eddie Volz will alternate between second and third. Tony Ferrara will catch.

Volz is also a reserve catcher and O'Neill called Boccanfuso a "real surprise." PHS was scheduled to face Hunterdon Central and Princeton Day School in pre-season games.

Who among seven or eight candidates will get the starting pitcher assignment is a moot question right now. O'Neill reports he wants to get a look at everybody before he makes his choice. A lack of experienced hurling is one of the weaknesses the Little Tigers will have to overcome in the early going.

But not hitting. "The last three kids in the lineup are capable of hitting the ball and it looks like a good hitting team," said O'Neill, who added that he was pleased with the apparent batting depth.

"I'm very optimistic," he said at the start of the season. He is aware, however, that PHS is going to have to click early. In its second game it meets Lawrence, the top team in the area last year with 20 victories.

OLYMPICS NEXT?

For Pennington Diver, Carol Wagner, a 15-year old sophomore at Hopewell Valley High School, qualified for the three-meter diving Nationals in Cleveland April 2-5, after she placed first among a national field of 30 divers in Madison, Wis. It is the third time that Carol has qualified for the national competition which is a prelude to the 1976 Olympics in Montreal.

Miss Wagner won the event with a total of 425.80 points. She received 63 on her last dive, a reverse one and one-half somersault with two and one-half twists. She is the only woman diver in the United States able to perform this difficult dive.

Miss Wagner, a resident of Harborton Road, Pennington, is coached by Bob Webster, Princeton University diving coach.

Q. What 1974 luxury car was $4975 last spring and is still available at $4975 this spring?

It was quite a year for price increases. Most cars went up several hundred dollars. But the Audi 500LS is still the same price this January as it was last January. And it's still available.

The Audi is a full-sized luxury car, extraordinarily comfortable. Its seats were orthopedically designed to help prevent fatigue. It has the legroom and headroom.

of some cars twice the price. It's the only luxury car that combines front-wheel drive, torsion crank rear axle, front disc brakes, rack-and-pinion steering. And it's German engineered to last. And to get about 24 miles to the gallon.

It may go up in February. But this month you can get it for $4975. Unquestionably.

Rebuilding Year Seen for PHS Lacrosse Team

What can Bill Cirullo do for an encore?

Last year, in his first year as head coach, the former PHS football tailback, guided the Princeton High School lacrosse team to an 8-5 record—its best ever—and an invitation to participate in the state tournament.

lost their opening round game to Hanover Park, it marked the first time PHS had competed in the event. Not bad, considering that PHS is the only public high school in the area that participates in lacrosse and that Cirullo had never played the sport himself.

Cirullo attended as many lacrosse clinics as he was able. He learned as he went along. He stressed conditioning and hard work. Two of Princeton losses last year were by a single goal, one to Pingry was in sudden death after two overtime periods.

This year, Cirullo has suffered as a result of graduation. Virtually his top two starting midfield units were wiped out. Keith Rendall, the line goalie, departed, as did Mark Campbell and Ron Campbell, two of the three leading scorers.

PHS LACROSSE LETTERMEN: Two PHS lacrosse veterans who will be on the front line when the Little Tigers open their season Wednesday against visiting Fair Lawn are seniors Alex Kinnan (left) and Kevin Syberg. Coach Bill Cirullo has called the rugged Kinnan one of the best high school lacrosse players in the state. Both are midfielders.

By necessity then this is going to be a rebuilding year for PHS. Despite this, there is an undercurrent of optimism about the 13-game schedule, particularly among the players.

"It's important to feel optimistic," agreed Cirullo, "especially in the situation which you have here." He pointed out that PHS, which has 30 to 35 on its squad, must compete against established schools which traditionally have 85 to 90-member squads.

"We don't have the size and the speed we had last year, but I think our stick work will be a lot smoother," commented Cirullo. "And I'd say our stick work was above average last year. We've got the potential if we can develop it."

Opener Wednesday. PHS will open its season Wednesday, April 2, at home against Fair Lawn, starting at 3:45. All home games will be played on the PHS football field.

Indications that PHS was headed for a good season last spring came early when PHS in its opener upset Fair Lawn, 6-4. Admittedly, it was not one of Fair Lawn's better teams' confidence soaring.

Newcomers to the schedule include Summit, Moorestown and Montclair, the latter a perennial state power which PHS was unable to play last year because of scheduling difficulties. "It's a little tougher," is the way Cirullo described it.

Following a scrimmage here Saturday against Edison (which PHS won, 3-1), Cirullo reported that he was pleased with his team's stick handling and the goal tending of Steve Tomlinson and Robert Willis. Edison, he said, was a very physical team. "It was a learning situation."

Who's Back? On defense, Robert Haws, Craig Rendall, Alex Kinnan and Nate Harris. The latter played the sport last year at Hun. Harris is a solid performer, "built like a rock," said Cirullo. He is certain to see plenty of action as a Little Tiger.

Haws played mostly jayvee last year but he "has earned a starting position," commented Cirullo through his much improved stick work. Kinnan earned an honorable mention as an all-state defenseman last year and Cirullo described him as a "superb high school player, one of the finest, I think, in the state." Kinnan is so good that Cirullo says he is thinking of switching him to midfield to shore up the greater weaknesses there.

The lone two veteran middies returning are John Leshner and Kevin Syberg, both seniors. Candidates up from the jayvee squad include Stuart Brown, Paco Irby, Dan Muri, Bill Cobb, who played mostly attack last year, and sophomore John Haroldson out for the first first time, who, says Cirullo, has all the ingredients to become a top-notch lacrosse player.

At attack where the situation isn't as bad, Mace Mohrman and Alex Wert, both seniors who have had ample varsity experience, return. Mohrman was one of the leading scorers last year, and, according to Cirullo, has very fine stickwork and a lot of knowledge of the game. Wert is a strong, consistent player.

Morgan Mohrman, a sophomore, has played well with his older brother in practice this season. "He's come a long way and at this point has the ability to move up to the varsity," said Cirullo.

For the first time, Cirullo has an assistant. He's Dick Phebus, the assistant basketball coach at PHS. "It's a blessing," said Cirullo. "He's had no lacrosse experience but he's eager to learn. I learned a lot in my first year."
